Resolution of 28th June of Universidad de Sevilla announcing grants for the requalification of the Spanish university system for 2021-2023.

Royal Decree 289/2021 of 20th April and Order UNI/551/2021 of 26th May, which regulates the direct award of grants to public universities for the requalification of the Spanish university system, implement investment C21.I4 "Education and training of teaching and research staff of the aforementioned component 21". This is a multi-annual investment aimed at the requalification of the Spanish university system by promoting the training of its young Doctors, encouraging the mobility of its teaching and research staff for the requalification of the tenured and contracted teaching staff and attracting international talent. This investment includes the granting of subsidies to Spanish public universities for a total amount of €361.56 million for the period comprising 2021-2023. Universidad de Sevilla plays an essential role in guaranteeing the right to education, enshrined in Article 27 of the Spanish Constitution. It also plays a key role in producing knowledge through scientific, technical, humanistic, and artistic research, and in the transfer of knowledge and innovation. In addition, it makes a decisive contribution to the training of responsible citizens and to the improvement of their professional skills.

In this context, the human capital of Universidad de Sevilla is a fundamental asset for achieving these objectives, as well as for promoting the requalification and national and international mobility of its teaching and research staff will make it possible to raise the quality of the public service they provide and thus guarantee the right to education. Indeed, the training of young PhDs, the promotion of mobility among its teaching and research staff in order to maintain their high level of qualification, and the attracting international talent within Universidad de Sevilla are fundamental objectives for catalysing the modernisation of the Spanish university system and, in short, promoting the improvement in the quality of education in Spain.

In summary, the reasons that accredit the public, social and economic interest in awarding this grant are specified in the public nature of Universidad de Sevilla and, therefore, its service to the general interest, in accordance with the provisions of Article 3 of Law 40/2015, of 1st October, regulating the Legal Regime of the Public Sector; in the inclusive nature of the grants, in accordance with objective and proportional allocation criteria; and in the ultimate purpose of the grants by contributing to guaranteeing the right to education recognised in Article 27 of the Spanish Constitution.

All of the above justifies that this investment, due both to the public nature of its beneficiaries and its purpose, responds to public, economic and social interest, being clearly

Third. Modalities and distribution of the number of grants.

1. Grants financed under this call for proposals will comprise the following types of grants:

Modality A. Margarita Salas Grants for the training of young Doctors.

The purpose of these grants is the training of young Doctors by means of training stays at a Spanish public university, Spanish Public Research Bodies or at foreign universities and research centres. These grants can have a two-years duration, and in exceptional circumstances, a three-year duration. They can only be applied for, and undertaken, on a continuous basis. If the last year is spent at Universidad de Sevilla, beneficiaries may carry out teaching collaborations of up to 60 hours, which must be authorised by department to which they are assigned. For these purposes, section 4.6 of the regulations governing teaching collaboration in official courses by staff from outside Universidad de Sevilla will be considered applicable. Three-year stays must begin on 1st January 2022.

Modality B. Grants for the requalification of tenured or contracted university teaching staff.

The purpose of these grants is to requalify teaching staff at Universidad de Sevilla, whether tenured or contracted, through training stays at a national or foreign public university or a research centre other than Universidad de Sevilla. These grants will have a one-year duration. They can only be applied for, and undertaken in a single one-year period, in two six-month periods, with a maximum gap of 12 months between the two periods. They must end on or before 31st December 2024. Assistant Lecturers will maintain the reservation of a place at the university where they are contracted, without loss of seniority, for the duration of the training stay financed by these grants. The lecturer will be granted a one-year septennial leave of absence under the terms established in the Regulations on septennial leave of absence in the framework of the call for grants for the requalification of the Spanish University System (Agreement 6.3/CG 24-6-2021).

Modality C. María Zambrano Grants for the attracting international talent.

The purpose of these grants is to attract to Universidad de Sevilla teaching and research staff with accumulated post-doctoral experience in foreign universities or research centres. These grants are aimed at teaching and research staff, be they Spanish or foreign nationals, with an accumulated post-doctoral career of no less than twenty-four months in universities or research centres located outside Spain, other than the one in which their doctoral thesis was defended. The grants' duration can be of one or two years. They can only be applied for, and undertaken, on a continuous basis. Beneficiaries can carry out teaching collaborations of up to 60 hours, which must be authorised by department to which they are assigned. For these purposes, section 4.6 of the Regulations on Teaching Collaboration in official teaching by staff from outside Universidad de Sevilla will be considered applicable. At the end of the stay, Universidad de Sevilla, through its Research Commission, or through an external evaluation process, will evaluate the scientific impact and milestones achieved by each beneficiary. The result of this evaluation can be taken into account as a merit for incorporating the beneficiaries into the Talent Recruitment Plan of Universidad de Sevilla.

For the three modalities, the stays must begin within a maximum period of three months from the publication of the final award decision, unless one of the justified reasons listed in point 4 of the third base of this call is given, and the request for delay is authorised, and can not end after 31st December 2024.

2. 55% of the amount of the grants awarded to Universidad de Sevilla within the framework of the requalification of the Spanish university system is earmarked for modality A, Margarita Salas for the training of young Doctors; 25% of the amount is dedicated to modality B, Grants for the requalification of a tenured or contracted university teaching staff, and 20% of the amount is earmarked for modality C, María Zambrano Grants for attracting international talent, in accordance with the distribution criteria established in Annex I of this Resolution.

Should, once the grants have been awarded, between 50% and 55% of the amount earmarked for Modality A remain unallocated, this amount will be credited to Modalities B and C at a rate of 60% and 40%, respectively.

In the same way, if, once the grants have been awarded, any remainder initially earmarked for modality B remains unallocated, it will be used to increase the amount earmarked for modality C. Similarly, if, once the grant initially allocated to modality C has been granted, any remainder remains unallocated, this will increase the amount allocated to modality B.

If there are any remaining amounts in Modalities B and C, both amounts will be credited to Modality A.

In the grant corresponding to Modality B, retraining tenured or contracted university teaching staff, the amount allocated will be divided in 50/50 between the permanent and temporary teaching staff included in the present call for applications. If any amounts remain unallocated in either of these groups, they will be given to the other group. Within the permanent teaching and research staff, half of the amount will be divided between the group of tenured university lecturers and the group of contracted doctoral lecturers. The amounts not awarded will be passed on to the other group.

3. 2% of the amount earmarked for each of the grant modalities is reserved for persons with a recognised disability equal to, or greater than, 33%. When these persons exceed the established minimum score, they will be entitled to the concession of a grant not exceeding the 2% limit, even if they have a lower score than the rest of the candidates. Granting aid in each of the modalities in this reserve quota will be made in accordance with the standardised score obtained by each of the candidates. The unawarded amounts reserved for people with disabilities will be accumulated with the rest of the grants in each of the modalities of the reserve. A reserve list will be drawn up for this category in each of the grant modalities comprising those applicants who, having attained the minimum score, have not obtained a grant. These reserves will be taken into consideration in the definitive award decision for cases of renunciation or abandonment that occur within the scope of this reserve.

4. Applicants can interrupt their grant or delay their incorporation for duly justified reasons of force majeure. The interrupted period is irrecoverable, and during this period, the grant will have no economic-administrative effects. Only in the event that the cause is due to the health emergency situation caused by COVID-19, situations of temporary disability, accident, risk during pregnancy, maternity, paternity, adoption or fostering, can the interrupted time be recovered, but under no circumstances will postponing the stay's termination the date entail an increase in the grant received by the beneficiary. A delay in incorporation due to visa processing can be justifiably requested.

In all cases the interested party must previously submit an application, which Universidad de Sevilla must authorise. Under no circumstances can the end date of the stay be later than 31st December 2024, nor can it exceed 30% of the total period of the stay.

Apart from the cases considered in this section, no modifications will be authorised in implementing the stays that have been granted.

6. When the beneficiaries of the grants provided for in Modality A, Margarita Salas Grants for training young Doctors have to be registered with the Social Security, both during their stays in Spain and abroad, the amount of the social security contributions will be deducted from the amount of the grants, and Universidad de Sevilla or the beneficiary, under the legal provisions, will be responsible for making this registration.

ANNEX I. Distributing the number of grants and award criteria

Applications with more than 80 points will be selected. Applications scoring less than 80 points will not be considered in the process described below for the award of grants, nor for the drawing up of the lists of substitute candidates.

The values of the evaluations obtained by those applications scoring at least 80 points will be normalised, taking as a reference the arithmetic mean value in each branch of knowledge of the proposals that meet this requirement.

- a. Applications will be ranked according to a standardised overall score.
- b. In the event of a tie, applications will be prioritised in the following order:
 - Normalised CV score
 - Normalised scientific-technical background score recipient group
 - Normalised Score supporting memorandum
 - Female applicant
 - Youngest applicant
 - Random draw

Once the applications have been sorted and their scores have been standardised, they will be allocated according to the following procedure (in each step, the grants awarded in the previous steps are counted for the quota to which they refer):

1. In accordance with Rule Three 3, 2% of the amount earmarked for each of the grant modalities is reserved for people with a recognised disability equal to, or greater than, 33%. When the number of people in this category exceeds the established minimum score, they will be entitled to receive a grant up to, but not exceeding, the 2% limit - even if they have a lower score than the rest of the candidates. Awarding grants in each of the modalities in this reserve quota will be undertaken in accordance with the standardised score obtained by each of the candidates. A list of substitute candidates will be created.
2. Modality A - Margarita Salas:
 - a. The minimum number of grants to be awarded in each of the five branches of knowledge will be selected in the order of standardised scoring, budget and the established quotas allowing. The minimum number of grants to be awarded in each branch will be the result of the following calculation:

$$\text{Minimum number of grants to be awarded in branch R and modality A} = \frac{\text{Total number of applications in branch R and modality A}}{\text{Total number of Applications in Modality A}} \times 40$$

The integer resulting from the elimination of decimal places will be taken unless it is less than one. In this case, one will be taken.

This translation is provided for informational purposes only. In the case of discrepancy with the Spanish version of the call, the Spanish version will prevail.

- b. An additional number of applications will be selected up to 55% of the total amount of the grant received, if possible.
- c. In the above awards, for three-year applications, an initial two years will be awarded. If 55% of the total amount of the grant received is not reached, the third year of stay will be awarded, in order of score, until the previous quotas are reached.
- d. Should, once the grants have been awarded, between 50% and 55% of the amount earmarked for Modality A remain unallocated, this amount will be credited in a percentage of 60% and 40% to Modalities B and C, respectively.

3. Modality B -Reclassification of university or contract teaching staff

- a. The minimum number of grants to be awarded for each of the five branches of knowledge for this modality will be selected in order of standardised score, provided that the budget and the established quotas allow it. The minimum number of grants to be awarded in each branch will be the result of the following calculation:

$$\text{Minimum number of grants to be awarded in branch R and modality B} = \frac{\text{Total number of applications in branch R and modality B}}{\text{Total number of Applications in Modality B}} \times 20$$

The integer resulting from eliminating decimal places will be taken unless it is less than one. In this case, one will be taken.

- b. An additional number of applications will be selected until 25% of the total amount of the grant received is reached, if possible. In the grant corresponding to Modality B grant for the retraining of tenured or contracted university teaching staff, the amount allocated will be divided in 50/50 between the permanent teaching staff of the University and temporary teaching staff among those included in the present call. If any amounts remain unallocated in one of these groups, they will be credited to the other. Within the permanent teaching and research staff, half of the amount will be divided between the group of tenured university lecturers and the group of contracted doctoral lecturers. The amounts and contracts that are not awarded will pass to the other group.

4. Modality C - María Zambrano

- a. The minimum number of grants to be awarded for each of the 5 branches of knowledge for this modality will be selected in order of standardised score, provided that the budget and the established quotas allow it. The minimum number of grants to be awarded in each branch will be the result of the following calculation:

$$\text{Minimum number of grants to be awarded in branch R and modality C} = \frac{\text{Total number of applications in branch R and modality C}}{\text{Total number of Applications in Modality C}} \times 10$$

The integer resulting from the elimination of decimal places will be taken unless it is less than one. In this case, one will be taken.

- b. An additional number of applications will be selected up to 20% of the total amount of the grant received, if possible.
5. Should, once the grants have been awarded, any remainder initially earmarked for modality B remain unallocated, it will be added to the amount earmarked for modality C. Similarly, if, once the grant initially allocated to modality C has been granted, any remainder remains unallocated, it will be added to the amount allocated to modality B. Should there be any remainders in Modalities B and C, both amounts will be credited to Modality A.
6. A list of substitutes will be drawn up for each modality in order of standardised score.
7. In the event of renunciation, the grant will be allocated to the next applicant resulting from the re-applying the above criteria, as set out in Rule Twelve.
